Seven vie for four spots on council

By Matt Heilman

In Park City, two things were confirmed at the Jan. 22 filing deadline to run for city council, mayoral and school board posts. In April, Park City will have a new mayor and at least one new council member.

Departing mayor Emil Bergquist and departing council member Keith Thomas followed through with their plans not to seek re-election. The pair will step down from the city's governing body at the April 9 council meeting.

Local elections are set for April 2.

At the filing deadline, one man formally expressed an interest to replace Bergquist. Barring residents' preference for a write-in candidate, current council member Ray Mann will be named Park City's next mayor in April.

Mann, a member of the council since 2011, said he wanted to run for mayor to help the city through upcoming challenges and succession planning with the city staff. While not afraid to make command decisions, he said it was important to incorporate the council as a team in all of the city's decisions and feels the group should be more active.

"It's still a team effort at the end of the day," Mann said.

Four newcomers and three incumbents are vying to be part of the team in April. Park City's council consists of two representatives in each of the city's four wards.

The most interest is drawn to Ward 2, which includes the southeast part of Park City. In Ward 2, incumbent Cecil Goldsmith is seeking re-election to serve a second four-year term on the council. Goldsmith has challengers in George Glover and Park City Library Director Len Warren.

Glover, a community volunteer who has led the organization of Park City's annual fishing derby, said he wants to run to serve as an advocate for the people of Park City.

Glover said he feels the council could use a representative that is better in tune with the wants and needs of the city's residents.

Warren said the council could benefit from having a fresh perspective looking at lingering and new issues. Specifically, he said a plan is needed to permanently get a grip on delinquent special assessments that have been a financial burden.

Warren, who has lived in Park City since 1972 said his position as library director wouldn't conflict with a role on the city council since he works for the library board, which is a separate entity from the City of Park City.

In Park City, a primary election is necessary if three or more candidates seek a position. The primary for Ward 2 is scheduled for Feb. 26.

In Ward 4, which primarily includes the south-central part of

Bergquist steps down

Mayor looks back at longtime service to Park City

Matt Heilman

Park City Mayor Emil Bergquist is stepping down from the post he's served since 2009. Including time as the city's mayor and on the council, Bergquist has served Park City for almost 16 years.

By Matt Heilman

On the wall behind his desk in the mayor's office at Park City City Hall, Emil Bergquist has a Norman Rockwell painting depicting a man speaking up for the first time at a town hall meeting. For Bergquist, the art represents what he enjoys most about serving his community, hearing the concerns and wishes of the people he represents.

"That's where my heart's always been, communication and people having a voice," Bergquist said.

After nearly 16 years serving Park City, including time as a council member and mayor, Bergquist is stepping down. At a Jan. 8 council meeting the mayor gave a speech that, at least initially, seemed headed toward an announcement that he was planning to seek re-election in April. It turned out to be an announcement that, following the April 2 election, Park City will have a new mayor, for at least the next four years.

Bergquist discussed several accomplishments the city has made during his time as its mayor and briefly touched on the challenges ahead for Park City.

He said there were 17 reasons why he chose not to seek another term as mayor.

Bergquist then held up a large picture of his 17 grandchildren. No. 18 is on the way.

Spending more time with family was just one part of Bergquist's reasoning for stepping away from his post. He said he wanted to work with his wife, Raylene, in volunteer and community outreach efforts in the city, serving Park City in a capacity beyond local government.

"It's not an issue of stress or the job being too much," he said. Bergquist began serving Park City in 1995 when the Hawker Beechcraft engineer, husband and father of two sons and a daughter was elected to his first term on the city council.

Bergquist had moved his family to the Wichita suburb in the summer of 1991. He considered himself "a northerner" and had previously lived in the city before its incorporation from 1975 to 1978.

"I thought it would be a good fit for us," Bergquist said.

His three sons played recreation league baseball in Park City and his daughter met her future husband in the city.

By 1995, Bergquist knew Park City and the surrounding area well, but at least at first, he didn't want to run for council.

"But I've always had a strong desire for civic governments doing well and the process," he said. Within a couple of days of being asked about it, Bergquist threw his hat in the ring to represent the city in Ward 1 of its newly establish ward system. He was backed by encouragement from fellow residents.

He had made himself known in the community in part with his opposition to the Wyandotte tribe's plans to build a casino on land it holds in trust near 77th North and I-135.

When the plans for the casino were announced in 1993, Bergquist led a group that felt that the construction of a tribal casino should not automatically be granted by the government without public input.

"The purpose we set out as the casino opposition group was simply to say, 'Let's get the people's opinion on this rather than just assuming,'" Bergquist said.

He said if the matter was put to a vote and the public supported the construction of the casino, the group he represented wouldn't oppose the plans. In his role serving Park City, Bergquist has had to work through numerous issues big and small with potential casino development taking a backseat to more pressing matters.

As Park City has grown, its problems have become more complicated, but the city has gotten by, overall outweighing its shortfalls with success stories.

Bergquist served on the Park City Council from 1995 until 2001 when he won his first term to serve the city as its mayor. Bergquist lost his re-election bid to Dee Stuart by a narrow margin in 2005 and took two years off from city government. He got involved again with a run for city council in 2007, a role he served for two years before his second and most recent mayoral term.

In his time serving Park City, Bergquist said he's seen commercial, industrial, recreational and residential expansion. The park space has doubled, in the city, new housing additions have been developed, new businesses have opened and expanded, the number of restaurants has tripled, infrastructure and utilities have improved, the Chamber of Commerce has grown and at Park City's peak, the city expanded by about 3,000 residents.

Bergquist said he was proud to have been part of the leadership group that helped spur the progress.

Recent years haven't been as prosperous in Park City since the economic downturn, but Bergquist voiced optimism in the city's direction and its grasp on fiscal responsibility.

The man, who says he values public input and upholding the state and U.S. constitutions, hasn't ruled out another run for office someday. But at least for now, he's moving on. If he does run for another council or mayoral term, Bergquist said he'd do so without an agenda.

"I never ran on what I would do. I ran on who I was," he said.

As of the Jan. 22 filing deadline, current council member Ray Mann was the only candidate to submit his name to replace Bergquist. Barring residents' preference for a write-in candidate, Mann will be sworn in as Park City's next mayor at the April 9 council meeting.

Council names new chief

By Chris Strunk

Park City has named its next chief of police.

The city council voted Jan. 22 to hire Phil Bostian, a 30-year law enforcement veteran who is currently an administrative lieutenant with the Kansas Highway Patrol. Bostian will start on April 1.

Bostian was a reserve and part-time officer with the Park City Police Department from 1981 to 1983.

Bostian replaces Bill Edwards, who resigned last month to become chief of police in Eudora. The city has been without a chief since Edwards left on Dec. 16.

In other business Jan. 22, the council:

- Approved an ordinance that adopts the zoning regulations of the city. Major changes include the option for a non-conforming use waiver to the ban on RV parking in the front of residences, changing where political signs can be placed (10 feet from the back of the street curb with the property owner's consent) and establishing an entertainment zone classification (for venues such as Hartman Arena and Jeeps).

- Approved the gift of $8,500 to go toward the H.O.G. Kansas State Rally through the convention and tourism bed tax.

- Approved a ban on curbside parking in the curve at the intersection of Denver, Mobile and Evanston streets.

- Approved the extension of a sewer line on North Broadway at the owner's expense.

- Turned down an offer from KPTS to purchase for $130,000 up to 10 acres of city-owned property northwest of 61st North and Broadway for the construction of a 400-foot tower.

- Approved an agreement with Parsons Brinckerhoff for bridge inspection for $7,500.

Park City tourism sets busy schedule

By Matt Heilman

One of Park City's key volunteer boards is doing its part to draw entertainment to the area in the months ahead. At its first meeting of 2013, held on Jan. 2, the city's 10-member convention and tourism board decided where its money — collected through a hotel sales tax in the city — will be spent.

Convention and Tourism chairman John Goyette explained that the board doesn't put on events; it just allocates money to bring events to Park City.

"If somebody has an activity that fits our city, we will fund it and they'll put it on," Goyette said.

The next few months will be busy with events planned at the Kansas Pavilions and Hartman Arena.

Goyette said the Wichita Sports Commission determined at its Jan. 3 meeting that sporting events in Wichita bring in more

2 Attics offering lunch

Park City's 2 Attics Antique Mall and Estate Services is now offering $5 lunches on Thursdays and Fridays. The store's owner, Kirby Melugin, who has been selling estate sale items and antiques out of space in the 1500 block of East 61st North for almost three years, said the lunch menu includes entrees, sides and ice tea. The lunches, prepared from a kitchen at the back of the business, include weekly sandwich and soup specials accompanied by "a regular menu," Melugin said.

The menu includes different dessert items for special events. Carrot cake is one of the specialties, Melugin said.

He said overall sales at the shop are going well with more than 60 dealers contributing to the business.

"We stay pretty busy," Melugin said.

For more information on 2 Attics Antique Mall and its new lunch service, call the shop at 201-1828.

Pride distributes food boxes

On Dec. 22, the Park City Police Department along with Park City Pride volunteers helped deliver food boxes to 44 families in Park City. It was the hope of Pride to provide a healthy holiday meal to those needing a little assistance. The United Methodist Church at Park City teamed with Pride in providing Christmas gifts for the younger children.

Park City Pride would like to thank all the citizens and businesses of Park City for their generosity and support of the Holiday food drive.

Without this support, the event would not be as successful as it is.

Suspect arrested at Johnson's

A suspect was arrested following a Dec. 26 morning robbery of Johnson's General Store at 5400 N. Meridian. Park City police assisted Wichita police on a robbery in progress call that was made by a clerk at Johnson's at 7:39 a.m.

Officers arrived on scene and were able to take a 27-year-old man into custody at the register. The man, identified as Casey Green, was booked on suspicion of attempted robbery. His stolen vehicle was found outside Johnson's.

Park City police said Green allegedly went into the store and demanded money when the clerk called 911. The police report didn't say if Green made any threats or had a weapon.

The Johnson's robbery was the first of four robberies over a stretch of less than 24 hours in the Wichita area. On the night of Dec. 26, robberies were reported at a Preston Convenience Store in the 3300 block of North Rock Road and at a Family Dollar store in the 300 block of West 21st North.

The fourth robbery was reported shortly before 1 a.m. Dec. 27 outside an apartment complex on South Webb Road. Investigators aren't sure if any of the robberies are connected.

One hurt in wreck at 77th

An 81-year-old Wichita woman was taken to a Wichita hospital with serious injuries following a two-vehicle wreck shortly before 3 p.m. Jan. 14 at the intersection of 77th North and Hydraulic.

Sedgwick County sheriff's Lt. Mary Mattingly said a gold Chevy van was southbound on Hydraulic when it struck a dark, eastbound Ford sedan, driven by Mary L. Kindred of Wichita, on the driver's side.

The sedan failed to yield the right-of-way to the van, Mattingly said.

She said Kindred stopped the sedan at the stop sign on 77th, but proceeded to pull out in front of the van.

The sedan spun around and went a ditch at the southeast corner of the intersection. The 58-year-old male driver of the van and his two passengers were not injured. Kindred was transported in critical condition.

There were no other occupants in the sedan.

Mission of Mercy dental service March 1 and 2

By The Post staff

Park City Convention & Tourism funds will provide rent and security for the 2013 Kansas Mission of Mercy to be held March 1 and 2 at the Kansas Pavilion II.

Once a year, in a Kansas community, volunteers come from all parts of the state — dentists, hygienists, dental assistants, even pediatric dentists and oral surgeons — to provide free dental services to those who cannot afford care. They donate their talents to provide treatment for the most urgent dental needs, such as extractions, fillings, oral surgery and dental hygiene for children and adults. The Kansas Dental Charitable Foundation typically provides free dental care for 2,000 people during the two days of treatments, relieving pain and/or embarrassment due to poor dental health.

Park City Pride has taken the lead in providing meals for the volunteers needed to accomplish this work. Along with Christ Lutheran Church, the Methodist Church at Park City, the Park City Lions Club, the Chisholm Trail Seniors and the Park City High Flyers 4-H Club, Pride members will cook and serve evening meals to nearly 850 volunteers in three days. Many organizations have volunteered to donate food and/or cook for volunteers, including Pride members, the Wichita Wagonmasters, and the Salas-Linares family.

KMOMS is celebrating its 10th year of free clinics, providing dental care to over 20,000 people over that time. For more information, including how to volunteer, visit the website at www.ksdentalfoundation.org.

Chisholm Trail Charge to benefit Food Pantry

By The Post staff

Park City Pride presented a proposal to the Park City Convention & Tourism Board for funding for the 2013 Chisholm Trail Charge to be held on July 27. Last year's race brought almost 150 entries, with racers from three states and all parts of Kansas. Proceeds from the 2013 race will help fund the Pride Park City Food Pantry, which distributes food from donations and from the Kansas Food Bank Warehouse once a month to residents of the city.

Race coordinator Dee Stuart said that it is the stated goal to make the race self-supporting in the third year (2014) and to have a profit for the Food Pantry thereafter. Convention & Tourism will fund about half the cost of this year's race. Male and female winners of both the 5K and 10K races will receive cash awards ± $500 for first, $350 for second, $150 for third. Student athletes will receive trophies in lieu of money prizes.

The race format will remain the same: 5K, 10K, one mile fun run/walk. There will be no other community activities scheduled until that evening's Movies in the Park. The extreme heat in 2012 sent racers as well as onlookers heading for home by 9 a.m., trying to avoid the 110-degree afternoon. This year's race will include a light breakfast for runners, a Runners' Roundup of area businesses that serve the running community, and an awards ceremony.

Chisholm Trail Elementary School physical education teacher Matt West, with the assistance of Pride member Tracy

Henderson, will coordinate the one-mile race. Entrants will be required to register and will receive ribbons.

Maize chiropractor Meryl Miller, last year's Health Fair coordinator, will perform the same function for the Runners' Roundup. Patrick Todd, Oz Endurance, will be the race director again this year.

For more information or to volunteer to help with the race, call 619-7800.

From the Park City Water Department

This is a reminder to let you know that utility bills are mailed the last working day of the month and are due by the 15th of the following month. When you don't receive a bill within 2 or 3 days after the first of the month, please contact our office at 744-2026. It is your responsibility to pay your bill, even if you do not receive a statement.

The bills do get lost in the mail, delivered to the wrong address, or returned to us with notations from the post office such as "moved no forwarding address" or "unable to forward". When you move remember to call all of your utilities to let them know you have moved and provide your new address.

2013 Sewer Rates

Water usage from December 15th through March 15th of each year determines the amount of sewer charges on water billings for the twelve-month period from April 1st to the following March 31st. The readings taken on the 15th of January, February and March are averaged to calculate the sewer rate. These readings are usually the lowest usage of the year, but they can be high if there is a water leak during that time period. If a leak has occurred, have it repaired in a timely manner and bring the receipts to the Water Clerk at City Hall.

By keeping your water usage down during this three-month period, you can control the sewer rate on your utility bill. If you have any questions about how to conserve your water usage, stop by City Hall and ask for a water conservation brochure.

The City of Park City is now offering e-mail utility bills. If you would like to have your bills e-mailed instead of receiving a card in the regular mail just complete this form and return it to City Hall. You may also sign up on our website www.parkcityks.com.

Automatic Payment of Utility Bills

Enroll now for automatic payment of water and sewer bills. Once enrolled, a billing will continue to be mailed to you that will show the amount that will be automatically deducted from your bank account. If you would like to enroll in this plan, just come by City Hall and complete the authorization form or call the water clerk at 744-2026.

PARK CITY PROJECT FRIENDSHIP

Project Friendship is a charitable organization that helps families in the City of Park City with their water/sewer bill. If you are experiencing a financial hardship and need assistance, please call 744-2026 and someone at City Hall will get you in touch with one of the Project Friendship board members. The board meets on the second Friday of the month at 9:30 a.m. in the conference room at City Hall.

To make a tax-deductible contribution to Project Friendship simply round up the amount of your utility bill and write the extra amount on the donation line that is located on the left side of your return stub. You may also pledge an amount that will automatically be added to your bill each month. For more information, call the water clerk at 744-2026.

Remember your outdoor animals!

Park City Code Enforcement would like to remind each pet owner to make sure their pets have plenty of food and potable water during cold weather. Food and water are critical to a dog that lives within the elements of the weather, and without enough food and water the dog will have a more difficult time staying warm. Also, doghouses need to have straw in them so the body heat from the dog will heat the straw will keep the doghouse insulated. Remember to go out and break ice for outdoor pets and livestock at least once an hour or as needed.

Winter Safety Tip from the Park City police department

- Winter weather can be so unpredictable. Everyone needs to remember to carry their cell phones, blankets, coats, water, and a few snack items for you and your passengers just in case of being stranded.
- Please check your local weather forecast. If ice or snow is predicted, make sure to leave early. Factor in the driving conditions and allow extra time to get to your destination. Watch for slick spots on and remember that bridges can be slick even if it appears there has been no precipitation.
- And always – please buckle up for your safety. Thank you!

Lawmakers stall school funding

It's interesting that when some Kansas lawmakers don't get the results they want, they try to change the rules.

Conservative Republicans, who control the Kansas Legislature, want to change the state constitution to limit the power of courts in Kansas. This effort, which has been brewing for some time, intensified over the weekend after a three-judge panel in Shawnee County District Court ruled that the state must boost its spending on public schools by $440 million a year.

We figured this would happen.

Many in the Legislature believe the state is already spending enough on public education. When challenged, some argue that public schools have reserve funds they can spend or point to past efforts to achieve equitable funding. At the same time, they forget that general funds were recently cut by millions of dollars and that schools live in constant fear of it happening every year.

In fact, the state is still playing catch-up from a similar court decision over public school funding more than six years ago. Since legislators can't seem to define equitable funding, it makes sense that the courts do it for them.

Some GOP leaders who view the courts as a vehicle for liberal activism want to restore to the Legislature the power to set school funding levels. We agree that school funding should be left to lawmakers. It's in the constitution. But when the legislative branch is not fulfilling its constitutional mandate to adequately fund public schools, there should be a way to challenge its decisions.

For a constitutional change to be successful, it must receive a two-thirds majority vote in the House and the Senate. It also must be approved by voters in a statewide election.

Lawmakers say the constitutional change would merely clarify the Legislature's power. We believe there's more than clarification at work here.

According to The Associated Press, the Shawnee County panel of judges irritated GOP conservatives when the judges criticized legislators for claiming the state couldn't afford to spend more on schools while enacting massive income tax cuts last year to stimulate the economy.

The criticism makes sense to us.

The court's decision on school funding likely will be appealed by the attorney general, which would send the case to the Kansas Supreme Court. And the proposed constitutional amendment likely will be approved by the state House and Senate.

Meanwhile, in limbo once again will be local school districts, which are trying to plan for the future without much faith in their funding levels.

That's not a good place for any organization to be, publicly funded or not.

Meeting a legend has a price

I finally saw what all of the fuss is about. Over a three-day weekend in early January, I made my first visit to Las Vegas. I had an awesome trip filled with long walks, people watching and low-stress gambling. I kept it low stress by sticking to penny slots and only playing one dollar at a time.

Really, from start to finish the mini vacation proved to be one of the best weekends I've had in a long time. If there was a downside to be had, it was a missed opportunity to meet a baseball legend.

Sitting in a sports memorabilia shop on the upper level of Mandalay Bay sat a man who holds the Major League Baseball hits record but has been barred from the Baseball Hall of Fame. Charlie Hustle himself, Pete Rose, sat at a small, roped off table in front of a large backdrop bearing his likeness.

The old man wore a black fedora with a red feather standing on one side. He sported a pair of reading glasses as he sat and signed an autograph.

In my opinion, Pete Rose is the greatest player to ever step foot on a baseball field. He never backed down from a fight and he hustled on every play, which is how he earned the nickname, "Charlie Hustle." Rose sprinted to first base on walks and always slid head first with no regard for his wellbeing or that of opposing players.

He crashed into catchers at home plate and had solid glove work to complement his staggering batting numbers. In his days as a manager, he was found guilty of betting on the game he loved. Because of his illegal gambling, Rose

Heil on life

has been barred from Cooperstown.

After years of denying that he bet on baseball, Rose finally came clean in his 2004 book, "My Prison Without Bars." I haven't read the book, but I know Rose has a lot of great stories to tell. I believe he belongs in the Baseball Hall of Fame and I believe that despite his depiction as a jerk in televised interviews and media reports, he's probably a decent guy once you get to know him.

When I saw Rose sitting at the table inside the sports shop in Mandalay Bay, I planned to spend about $20 on a cap and have him sign it while I took a few minutes to pick his brain about what it was like to play in the Big Leagues for more than 20 years and to be the focal point of the legendary Big Red Machine that gave the city of Cincinnati reasons to celebrate in the 1970s.

However, it wasn't that easy. I was told that Rose would only sign memorabilia for sale at the shop in which he sat.

To even speak to him, you had to spend at least $75 on a generic photo of him from his playing days. A blank baseball for him to sign cost $99. An adjustable Cincinnati Reds cap like you might find at Walmart cost a cool $119.

When I told an employee at the shop that I wasn't interested in spending $75, I was politely told I wouldn't get the chance to meet the great Pete Rose. I don't know who set the rules that only fans that spent at least $75 could meet him.

I'm afraid the answer is probably Pete Rose himself.

It's disappointing. When I was growing up, I used to imagine what it would be like to play America's Pastime professionally.

I never made it beyond the point of mediocrity in Little League. By about the age of 12, I knew I wasn't going to The Show.

But it's still fun to imagine how life would be if I was my generation's version of Pete Rose. I like to think I'd make time for fans during and after my successful career.

I'd happily sign autographs and I'd do it for free. I understand that Rose still needs an income.

I haven't seen his bank records, but something tells me he's not as financially secure as some of the other baseball greats who were more responsible with their money.

Even if he were only there to pay back his gambling debts, it would have meant a lot to this fan if Rose had made himself available for a free five-minute conversation and a photo-op. I still look up to the man as a player, but seeing him in Sin City didn't improve his tarnished reputation off the field, at least not for me. But maybe it would have if I would have forked over the money to meet him.

Really, it's unfortunate and it provided a brief solemn moment in an otherwise outstanding weekend.

Mayor's Corner

By Emil Bergquist

The slate of candidates for city council and mayor races in Park City has been finalized. One member position in each of the four wards has two years of service remaining. The other four positions will face final election on April 2. There will be a primary in any ward with three or more candidates. These events give you the voter renewed opportunities in our process of governance.

Each decision made by your governing body has a designing effect on the future of our community. Hopefully, most of those are positive. Facilitating the citizenry in issue resolution, structuring growth, setting budget and designing improvements for the future are just a few of the responsibilities your mayor and council carry daily.

The State of the Union and State addresses are long-standing traditions of presidents and governors in our nation. They lay out one person's idea of our condition and a direction for the future. It is often represents a call to press on with the same path. Good or bad, it gives them a forum to reason out a pathway. Although one-sided, it gives the public some idea of how to plan personally for the coming year.

The "State of the City" is something you get to directly address every two years. Stopping to look at where we've been, this is the performance review period. With open forums and thorough questions, you can change our direction or give approval to stay the course. Either way, you have your greatest chance to be a difference maker. Your challenge in the next few weeks will be to draw out position and goals from each of the candidates. It is good to be called to task, if you say you want to serve.

If you find great confidence in candidates, get behind them! The constitutional protection of free speech allows you to encourage them publicly and spread the word to others. The ongoing process of difference-making should never go on in silence. Please remember that civility and respect are responsibilities as well.

When all is said and done, prepare to vote. It is still one of the greatest gifts we have in America. See you around town!

than $73 million to the area per year.

"Probably $2 million to $3 million of the economic impact is with what we do," Goyette said.

Here's a list of several events the Park City Convention and Tourism Board plans to sponsor this year:

- Equifest of Kansas, Feb. 8 through 10 at the Kansas Pavilions.
- Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference basketball championships, Feb. 25 at Hartman Arena.

•High school state wrestling tournaments for Classes 5A and 6A, Feb. 22 and 23 at Hartman Arena.

•Park City Chill motorcycle and car show, Feb. 23 and 24 at the Kansas Pavilions.

•National Junior College Athletic Association Region 6 Basketball Tournament, March 6 through 9 at Hartman Arena.

•Park City-Wichita Classic youth wrestling tournament, March 2 and 3 at Hartman Arena.

•Mission of Mercy free dental clinic, March 1 and 2 at the Kansas Pavilions.

•The Hard Charge obstacle course challenge, April 20 at the Kansas Pavilions.

The Park City Convention and Tourism Board is also planning to sponsor a motorcycle rally in either May or June and is sponsoring members of the city's Pride committee to attend a Kansas Sampler Foundation Conference May 4 and 5 in Liberal.

The board will sponsor more activities in the second half of 2013.

Election

Park City, residents Melvin Kerr and Dennis Patterson have filed to be considered as replacements for Thomas.

Thomas served on the council for a two-year term in 1995 prior to his most recent four-year term. In his return to the council in 2009, Thomas wanted to make sure the council paid attention to how city dollars were spent and monitored the budget closely to avoid any significant burdens on taxpayers. He said there were "a lot of years where people were asking (him) to run," but he complied with the requests only when he felt he was needed to help guide the city through changes and challenges.

He said "a lot of people" got involved in 1995 when a sewer plant went in to serve Park City.

"I don't believe in running just for the heck of it," Thomas said.

In stepping down, he said he planned to stay involved in his community, including through outreach with his church, the United Methodist Church of Park City.

In Ward 1, which includes the north part of Park City, including annexed properties and homes in the Valley Center school district, incumbent John Lehnerr is unopposed, seeking his third-four-year term on the council. In Ward 3, which includes central Park City, incumbent Gary Aldrich is unopposed, seeking his second term on the council.

Hard Charge race set for April at Pavilions

By The Post staff

The Hard Charge obstacle mission is making its way to the Kansas Pavilions April 20. The competitive event consists of a four-to-six-mile race complete with 20 obstacles that involve wall and rope climbing, tire stepping, running and crawling in mud.

The event, sponsored by the City of Park City, KWCH, KSCW and fetchtoto.com, has charitable partners in Children's Miracle Hospitals and the Wichita Park and Recreation Community Fund. Registration for the Hard Charge ends at 11:45 p.m. April 17.

The April 20 event at the Kansas Pavilions will feature heats to "Charge for Glory" as well as less competitive fun runs. Registration to compete in the event is $64 for fun and $84 for the "Charge for Glory" by Feb. 23. The price increases to $74 and $94 until March 23, $88 and $108 until April 14 and $102 and $122 until April 17. The top finishers in the "Charge for Glory" will qualify to compete in a final race that will be televised later in the day April 20. Participants can register individually or as part of a team. For more information on the Hard Charge or to register, visit www.hardcharge.com/wichita.

Church to celebrate first year in community

By Matt Heilman

It's almost been a year since a small group gathered at a former video store in Park City and celebrated the official launch of a new church at 1510 E. 61st North. In the past 12 months, the United Methodist Church of Park City has seen significant growth and increased enrollment to its preschool program.

After a few preview services, the United Methodist Church of Park City officially launched on Feb. 5, 2012. The church is planning to celebrate its first birthday on Feb. 3, Pastor Rob Schmutz said.

Schmutz, who commutes to Park City daily from his home near Yoder, emphasizes community outreach and connection. Schmutz is present at most Park City council meetings and has taken part or led several volunteer efforts.

The United Methodist Church of Park City, also known as The Church at Park City, has participated in prayer walks down every street in the city, and has hosted a community-wide Easter egg hunt, candlelight Christmas services and a family ministry night that meets every Wednesday. The church has also partnered with civic groups on school supply and clothing drives, among several projects.

"We don't just want to go to church. We really feel called to be the church and be willing to do whatever God leads us to do," Schmutz said.

During the church's 11 a.m. Sunday service, the former Movie Gallery space nears capacity with overflow seating available at tables and chairs at the back of the room.

The sanctuary, which neighbors the space for children's ministry and the preschool, doesn't have an altar or aisles.

Schmutz said newcomers seem more comfortable with the casual setup. The pastor, who said he had a burden on his heart for Park City when he began counseling a couple in the city who attended his former church in Benton about two years ago, attributes prayer and the community outreach to the United Methodist Church of Park City's successful launch and growth. "I think the man thing is, everybody that has become a part of the church has a heart for Park City," Schmutz said. "And they care about, not just Park City, but the whole area."

With increasing attendance, the church is planning to phase in a 9 a.m. traditional service to precede its 11 a.m. more contemporary service.

The plan calls for two 9 a.m. preview services to lead up to the official launch of the traditional service on Easter Sunday, March 31.

"Everything we do, we try to make it about connections," Schmutz said. "How people can connect with God and how they can reconnect with one another."

Hodge Real Estate finds a home in Park City

By Matt Heilman

All along, the move made sense. And now, after finding a way to prosper in a challenging market, Hodge Real Estate LLC is officially open for business in Park City. Hodge Real Estate owner Rick Hodge operates his business at 6154 N. Independence at a property that was rezoned from residential to commercial a couple of months ago.

The zone change allowed Hodge to put up signage and begin advertising to officially recognize his presence in Park City.

Hodge shares the space on Independence with agents Jennifer Reed and Ruth Saranko and broker Mickey Gillette.

Hodge, who's been in the real estate business for about 18 years, worked with Gillette for about 14 years before taking out on his own.

Independently, he said 2011 was one of the best years he's had. Last year wasn't as strong in part due to the transition from west Wichita to Park City, but Hodge says he's doing well.

He hopes the move to Park City will translate to unmatched success.

"I wanted to move to Park

City because we've always been pretty dominant up north," he said.

Hodge, who lives in Butler County, said he drove up and down 61st Street, looking for the right location to move his business to north Sedgwick County. The move made sense because it provides easy access to clients in Wichita, Newton and the surrounding area with the presence of I-135 running through the heart of Park City.

Hodge said there's a high traffic count on 61st Street that should bode well for business in a market where he's been able to prosper.

He said he bought the house at 61st and Independence between four and five years ago with the intention of creating a home office. When the economic downturn hit the area, the plans were put on the shelf.

Hodge rented the residential property until the opportunity again presented itself to remodel the home into a business. When the renters notified Hodge they were ready to move out, he was ready to make the move from his Wichita office at 13th and Meridian.

"I thought, 'well, I'm not gonna rent it again,'" Hodge said. "I bought it for an office, I'm gonna make it an office."

The house at 61st North and Independence was repainted and re-carpeted. A living room and a dining room were converted into office space at the front of the home. Bedrooms at the back of the property were converted into two offices and a filing room.

Hodge said the move from Wichita to Park City went smoothly thanks in part to the cooperation with the Park City council and administration.

Hodge said city leaders allowed him to begin work out of the home as an office before the zone change.

"These guys are great to work with," he said. "The city administration and the councilmen are great people to work with. When I want something, they're really easy to get to."

Hodge Real Estate offers service to sellers and buyers of residential and rural residential properties, farms and ranches, land and many commercial properties.

For more information on Hodge Real Estate, call the business at 440-4730 or stop by its new home, directly east of Spangles at 61st and Independence.
